Trash that can be cleaned up in a couple of hours against peoples property and buildings getting burned to the ground. Pretty comparable lol

Glass windows and merch that can be replaced in a couple of weeks against black people losing their lives and family due to repeated police brutality.

Excuse me but people lost their whole livelihood that the looters and rioters stole from them by tearing apart their businesses that have been locked down for months after this pandemic. So don't tell me but that doesn't matter.

I don't know about that. But usually when a cop dies his murderer goes to prison this is not the case when cops murder innocent Black people.

In 2013, I worked a brand ambassador gig at a Kenny Chesney pre-concert tailgate, and it was the most disgusting display of human behavior I had ever witnessed in person. I'm not a country music fan, didn't know what to expect, but was unemployed & needed the money. Never again.

Autumn Keiser @hiyasugarflower · May 31
I worked in a mall food court restaurant in Sherman, Texas one summer and I bet I've caught a whiff of what you experienced. Nothing worse than white trash on pay day.

The black Satanist @Fizzarang · Jun 1
Ugh, I've heard how racist Sherman is. My siblings grew up there with rich white people...it was so bad my 2 youngest HATE white people despite being half white themselves. They were raised by white racists. I was the 1st born so my fam kicked me the fuck out at birth.

The University of Pittsburgh (about 3 miles from here) banned sofas on porches in the uni neighborhood because people kept lighting them on fire when the Steelers were in the SB or Pitt won a ball game. IIRC they actually stopped the rivalry game because of the student riots.

Matt Sendro @matthewg43 · May 31

False, the rivalry game stopped due to MONEY and SCHOOL CONTRACTS related to their respective conference's obligations. Not student riots and burning of couches. Nor comparable to what is going on atm 🙄

 Actually it didn't. Every time Kenny Chesney comes to Pittsburgh it costs the city tens of thousands of dollars for the police to corral all of his drunken fans and for environmental services and public works to go and clean up the filth they leave behind.

 Jake Newland @jnewland1207 · Jun 5
 Sounds like the event in Pitt isn't ran well then. Most events have volunteers that will make a % for their non-profit by cleaning up.

 Justin McGonigle @SNJustin · Jun 5
 The 40,000 parking spots at $50 a spot pays for the clean up.

 Amadi is Tired @amaditalks · Jun 5
 That money doesn't go to the city, it goes to the parking lot operators.

 Justin McGonigle @SNJustin · Jun 5
 Also parking which owns most lots in Pittsburgh pays for the clean up. They bring in a couple dump trucks, and bulldozers and get it cleaned up in a few hours. Doesn't appear you're from Pittsburgh so I can understand how you'd have no idea about this topic.

- Amadi is Tired @amaditalks · Jun 5
Honey, I've lived in Pittsburgh for 47 years. Born here, going to die here. And Alco does not pay the full cost for the cleanup. I don't know where you saw that, but it's just not true.
- Justin McGonigle @SNJustin · Jun 5
40k spots = 2 mil. Part of the tax break down on the parking goes to the city. You claimed the city loses tens of thousands to clean up the parking lots. That's completely not true and the parking lots are generally cleaned a few hours after the concert.
- Amadi is Tired @amaditalks · Jun 5
Do you think that the fact that Alco pays the same parking tax as every lot operator in the city means that the filth generated by the lowlifes who come in for that concert is paid for? Nope. Wrong again. You haven't been right yet even as you shift your story. You should stop.
- Justin McGonigle @SNJustin · Jun 5
Lol deflection usually occurs when you don't have any idea what you're talking about. But go on and tell me the city of Pittsburgh loses tens of thousands of dollars. They must lose tons of money during baseball and football season too. No idea how the city isn't bankrupted

Concert:

Buy goods, leave trash behind, trash is cleaned by personnel hired for that specific job.

Looting:

Destroy business, steal product, leave trash behind, wait for someone to volunteer to clean.

No remotely related.

JustNotSports @JustNotSports · Jun 7

Respectfully here Kohltrain, I just laughed at the tweet. I used to review concerts &amp; can confirm those Chesney tailgates are bonkers. (To your point, the more related comparison is to sports-related rioting, which many others have pointed out.) Anyway, truly hope you're well man

Kohltrain @kohljm · Jun 7

I used to work at a concert venue, the cleaning crew handles the trash the next day - many times the same night.

Sports riots are idiotic, won Stanley Cup must destroy city.

I hope you're doing well, and the world gains some sanity soon.

Funny, I've been to every Kenny Chesney concert that has been in Philadelphia and no looting or destroying of property has taken place. You are ignorant to compare what is happening now to a Concert.

C.M. Shigeta - ANTIFA middle manager @shigetacm · May 31
a more apt comparison might be the world series + super bowl wins where cars were tipped and set ablaze, stores were looted, etc that was a celebration, and not even a protest

Kyyle @kQnz · May 31
There may have been a few cars set on fire or overturned during those celebrations, but I do not recall it being the dozens that were set on fire between today and yesterday. Also don't believe center city was destroyed. Comparing the two is asinine.

C.M. Shigeta - ANTIFA middle manager @shigetacm · May 31
You're right. Comparing the two is asinine, given that the former was celebration of sport, and the latter is the result of protesting oppression.
Btw, deep in the mysterious land of business and finance, there exists an elusive mechanism called "insurance."

Kyyle @kQnz · May 31

 i don't care what color you are. people are losing jobs left and right and now you are burning/looting businesses will exacerbate that issue further. there are families, people's livelihoods we're talking about. you do realize everytime you rebuild it comes out of taxes, out it comes out of budgets which means lay offs, means cutting funding that supports the community. i will never say that burning, looting and harming others is right and justifiable in any event and i strong believe the white supremacy group is instigating this at these protests

 They left trash.
 The rioters the last 3 days have set fires, trashed businesses, and burned down low income housing in their own neighborhoods.
 No correlation. Lmao, Jesus.

 How ignorant do you have to be to think these are a valid comparison to riots

 Think you are missing the concept that looting involves the thugs stealing from the innocent hard working people. This involves no harm to innocent people you thug
